Gleamers

Gleamers4U@scot.com

For the attention of the Chief Dental Technician.

Dear Sir,

Thank you for the package which you sent to me yesterday.

I found it behind my outer storm door when I returned from the cinema.

There appears to be an error at your end.

I attach a jpeg of the dentures you sent pictured side by side with my present broken dentures, which I have repaired with superglue as a stop-gap measure.

As you will see the dentures which you sent me are far too big, clearly intended for someone else. Nonetheless, I must say that the green and red stripes on the incisors are very realistic.

I am soon to be married and ask that you send me the correct dentures asap.

Kindest Best Wishes,

Alrede Taken (Miss)

PS

I do not have an address for your workshop. Please advise what I should do with these incorrect dentures.

00000

Dear Miss Taken,

Thank you for your email. I have asked Miss Amelia Rate from our Customer Services team to investigate this matter and report to me asap.

Thank you for your jpeg and your kind remarks regarding the colouration. At Gleamers, we pride ourselves in creating dentures of the highest quality.

However, I have examined this jpeg image very closely and have discovered that the fangs have been damaged, quite noticeably, particularly the upper left canine which is chipped.

These dentures are therefore non-returnable.

Accordingly, under the T&Cs you accepted when you placed your order, you are liable for the full cost of these damaged dentures.

With Best Wishes,

Vladim Paler (Count)

PS

I attach an e-invoice in the amount of £325 now due. This invoice must be settled in full within 5 working days or we shall blacklist you on the Euro Credit Web which will prevent you from making any further online purchases.

00000

Dear Count Vladim Paler,

Thank you for your astonishing email.

I am at a loss for words to describe my feelings.

I must advise however that I am totally unwilling to lie down under your outrageous threat.

As a retired Primary Head Teacher who taught in the Blackhill area of Glasgow for thirty-two years, I am very experienced in dealing with bullies. Please be assured that I intend to resist you, down to the very last drop of blood in my body.

I attach a video clip. This is a re-enactment of me with a naughty boy from a primary seven class, back in the good old days when I was allowed, nae encouraged, to wield my Lochgelly. I advise that you study this video clip most carefully and cancel your preposterous invoice forthwith.

I await my replacement dentures which I will expect to be delivered without further ado, within 48 hours, or sooner.

Kindest Best Wishes,

Alrede Taken (Miss)

PS

You may also enjoy this YouTube link showing my future husband at work.

He is the tall one, in black.

https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=Sv5iEK-IEzw

00000

Dear Miss Taken,

Thank you for your recent email to Vlad.

I must apologise most sincerely for the gross misunderstanding which has arisen.

Normally Vlad is confined to his laboratory, fully secured. While I was out shopping at Silverburn Shopping Centre, he picked the lock and well, you know what happened next.

Vlad is not a bad lad, not really, and he is a fabulous dental technician.

I greatly enjoyed the video clip of your future husband in the Death Star Canteen.

I had not understood that you are about to become Mrs Darth Vader. Congratulations.

I shall personally ensure you receive your new dentures later today.

Best Wishes,

Amelia Rate (Miss)

00000

Dear Miss Amelia Rate,

Thank you for my new dentures. As promised, they are indeed perfect.

I find in particular that the incisors are wonderfully sharp and very much stronger than the first set you provided.

Now, confession time.

I am not actually about to get married to Darth Vader. Or indeed to anyone.

Nor is my name Alrede Taken. That is merely a name I use for online shopping.

I wonder if you might be free to meet next Monday evening, around 7.30 pm, just after dusk?

We could meet in Cineworld at Silverburn, Screen 5, at the corner of the back row, to the left as you enter.

Yes, I will be wearing my new dentures.

Until we meet,

Abraham (Bram) Stoker (Mr)

PS

I watched you arrive last night in your Tooth Fairy Deliveries van. And yes, I followed you home, Miss Amelia Rate aka Mrs Betty Thompson.

Oh, and Vladim Paler aka Tommy Delaney your bidie-in has, how shall we put, 'moved on'.

And yes, he certainly got the chance to test out his handiwork. Yummy.